As your Division Clinic Coordinator, I'm looking for people to give clinics on a variety of topics for the modeling community. You don't have to be an expert, just knowledgeable enough to teach others what you've learned. Giving a clinic is a great way to serve the community, and you can earn points for the AP program in the Author or Volunteer categories. If you're interested in signing up, please contact me. Thanks and happy modeling!

Presentation

The Aldey & Stillate

Presented by Paul Dishman

Paul Dishman's HO layout, the Aldey and Stillate, is based on the very short line railroad that runs between Pratt Falls, Utah and Hope Springs, Idaho. Besides providing scenic excursions between the two towns, it also services local businesses such as the M.T. Box Co., Tillwee Meats, and Oaks on Yew Lumber. Dishman will provide an insight into the questionable history of the railroad as well as a visual tour of the layout. The presentation will utilize Artificial Intelligence as that is the only kind the presenter has.

Special Event!!

Division Christmas Party

Inglennooks and Timesavers

Presented by Jim Wanlass MMR

A brief background about these train puzzles was given by Jim and then we had time to try them out for ourselves and test our switching skills. A number of them were constructed by different members of the Division.

Train of Thoughts

There's so much more to this hobby than just "building trains in your basement!" You can play trains with your friends in the Stadler cafeteria! We had a great time (I know I did) with the Timesavers and Inglenooks. We set up in the bigger area of the cafeteria and it was a lot of fun for me to see everyone talking and running trains on the portable layouts. The gift exchange had some fun surprises and the food was great! Thanks to everyone who helped make it such a fun time.

If you were able to see Mark's layout during his open house you would have seen some cool automation of the trains, not to mention the great modeling. He also has some really fun back stories for many of his scenes. That leads me into Paul's clinic on Saturday. He has a lot of vignettes on his layout, little scenes where a whole story could be told, and we will get to hear some of them. I like building and running trains and I admire the guys who can "fill the in-betweens" with stories. I like to think there are stories of the people working my railroad but I haven't heard them yet. Maybe someday I will get to hear them!

Come join us for some fellowship this weekend so we can enjoy the journey together!

Achievement Program

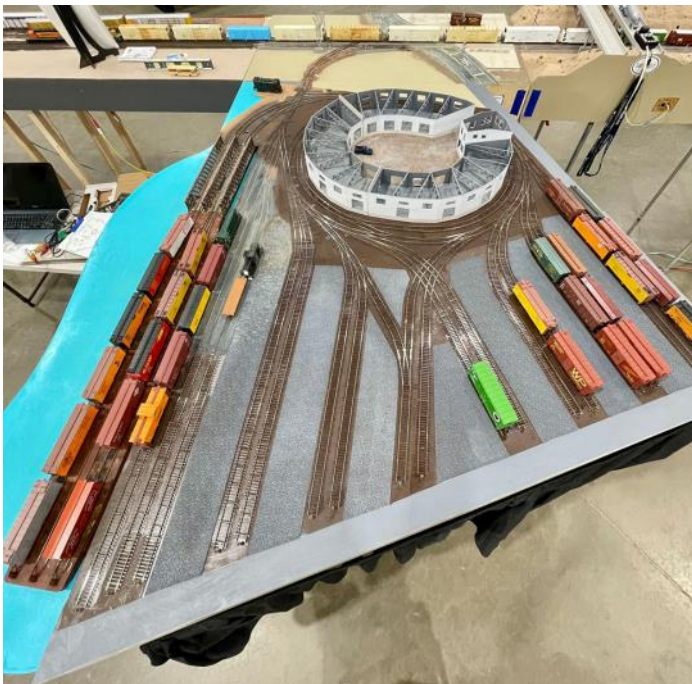

Congratulations to Cameron for earning merit awards for his trackwork which, in part, helped him earn the Civil AP Certificate! Often, but not always, Electrical and Civil are earned together. In Cameron's case there was about two years in between earning them. There are similar things that one can work on that go hand in hand with Electrical and Civil but also items that are specific to each one (such as scratch building three pieces of track work.) That makes five certificates for Cameron with just two more to go to earn his MMR!

It's been a little over two years since I started my Bronx Terminal module. Looking back at those early pictures it's crazy just how much work I've been able to do working at a slow but steady pace. I knew it would not be an easy, quick task. Since starting it I realized I could use it for my Prototype Certificate. In my opinion it is the hardest certificate because not only are you replicating a scene but it involves aspects of structures, cars, locomotives and scenery.

Now that all the track has been installed I have turned my attention toward finishing the round warehouse. It was one of the first things I started so that I would know where to put the track on the tight inside loop. Nearly two years later I am finally finishing it! It is a massive building because there is the outside where the train cars unload and the inside (which is still the outside) where the trucks pick up goods for the final destination. Overall there are 25 freight doors and even more than that number of windows. The prototype siding was corrugated iron panels. With how large the building is I decided to make my own because I would need several hundred panels! The pictures above show it at the first public show in April 2024 and a close up of what it looks like now. Most of the outside is finished and now I need to finish the "inner outside". I don't need to do any interior detailing for the certificate but I will because I want to. The office will have the upper story with stairs and some of the freight doors will be open showing details. I will also add interior lights. Also later (or sooner if I feel like it) I plan to have a couple of the freight doors animated. The building is removable in sections, held down with magnets, to make it easier to work on it. The roof is also held in place with magnets.

After finishing the freight house I plan to start working on some of the scenery. I have a couple more structures to do but I want to move on and come back to those later. I am excited to see the progression and to have fun running trains. This is definitely a project I've been wanting to do for a very long time and it just so happens that I will be able to earn an AP certificate with it.

Let me know what you are working on and how I can help. It might even be able to count toward a certificate for you. That way we can help each other and we can enjoy the journey together!

Layout Tour

The Portland Terminal Railroad HO Model Railroad

Built by Mark Rindflesh

The Portland Terminal Railroad models the Portland Terminal, Boston & Maine and the Maine Central in Portland, Maine in the late 1940's and early 1950s. The room is 14 x 17 feet with a duck under in the doorway. It is a switching layout with 4 staging tracks, a 4 track classification yard with industries and a car float on a peninsula. There is a trolley that shuttles around one side of the layout. The scenery is about 75-95% complete in the majority of the layout with the peninsula about 20% complete.

The setting is entirely urban with a modestly large elevated city scene representing Portland. There are lots of people and cars. I like large industries so the trains don't look so big. Thus, for example, the REA building is 3 feet long.

The layout is fully operational, controlled by NCE DCC. Mark is using NCEs mini panel to automate the movements of 4 separate trains in and out of staging. Switching can take place on the peninsula.

Call for Model Railroad Portfolios from the National Model Railroad Association!

The National Model Railroad Association (NMRA) is excited to compile an archive of fantastic model railroads, and we want to see your work! We invite you to share a digital portfolio of your railroad with us. This is a chance to showcase your passion and dedication to the hobby, regardless of where you are in the process! All scales, all sizes, all skill levels, and all progress points are welcome!

How to submit your portfolio

Please follow these simple, required steps to share your railroad:

Step 1: Create a Google Drive Folder: This is where all your files will live.

Step 2: NAME the Folder Clearly: The folder must be named using this exact format: [Your Name] - [Name of Your Railroad] (Example: John Smith - The Northern Pacific Line)

Step 3: Include These 3 Items in Your Folder:

- Photos & Videos: Share all the high-quality images and video clips of your railroad that you want to show off.
- Information Sheet: Create a document (Google Doc, PDF, Word doc, etc.) with key details about your railroad and yourself. Include: Your Name & Location - Railroad Name & Era/Time Period - Scale (e.g., HO, N, O, etc.) - Layout Size/Stats
- A short "About You" section - Any interesting facts or highlights

Step 4: Sharing Permissions: Set the Google Folder's sharing setting to "Anyone with the link can view."

Step 5: Send the Link: Once everything is ready, please email the link to: engage@nmra.org

Important Note: Only submissions following this exact format (Google Folder named correctly, containing the required files) will be accepted without special prior permission.

CLUB NEWS

The Northern Utah Division of the NMRA is selling a series of HO scale Utah Oil Company (UTOCO) tank cars manufactured by InterMountain Railway. Featuring a build date of 8/45 and a test date of 9/28/51, the cars are offered in six road numbers and are equipped with metal wheelsets and Kadee couplers.
Info: www.northernutahnrmra.org/club-car

Originally intended to be the convention cars for the 2019 NMRA convention in Salt Lake City, supply chain issues prevented the cars from arriving on time. Offered in six road numbers, the cars have metal wheelsets and Kadee couplers. You can get your very own historical tank car before this limited edition is sold out.

The price is $45 each with free shipping, or $40.00 if you pick them up either at the event or at Geoff Carter's home. Contact Geoff at
